

You are watching a movie. Your teacher put on the captions. During the movie you have to fill out a study packet. When you put your head down to fill in the packet, you still miss out on some information.

Your teacher puts on a movie. The movie is not captioned. Before the teacher puts the movie on, they announce that there will be a test on the information in the movie.

I have a unilateral hearing loss. I am deaf in my right ear. I am in driver's education class. The teacher talks to me while I am driving. I'm scared to look at the teacher and take my eyes off the road

My teacher gave us new seats. My seat is exactly in the wrong place for my hearing loss. I didn't speak up right away. Now I am struggling to hear the teacher!

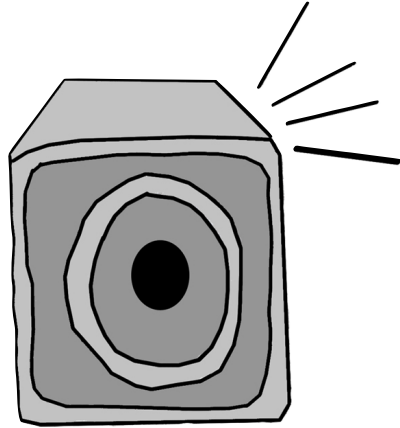

My teacher has a beard and mustache. I depend on speech reading sometimes to help me understand. Because of his beard and mustache he is very hard to speech read.

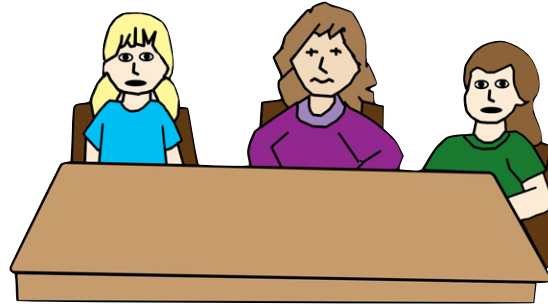

I sit near kids who talk all the time during class. When they are talking I can't hear the teacher.

Every day the office reads announcements over the loud speaker. I know they announce things like after school clubs and sports teams tryouts. I wanted to try out for the play, but I missed the announcement for tryouts.

I have the hardest time at lunch. I want to talk to my friends, but I have no idea what anyone is saying!

My gym teacher gives us directions for the games when we are outside. I can't hear what the teacher is saying so now I don't know how to play the game!

My friends mumble and talk really fast. I miss things they are saying. They get frustrated with me when I don't understand or ask them to repeat all the time

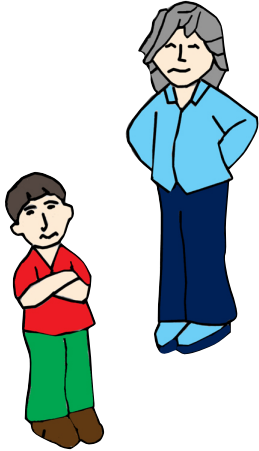

My teacher was helping me with my work. He was standing on my Deaf side. I couldn't hear him at all.

My mom was dropping me off at school and I asked if she was going to pick me up. I thought she said "yes". When I went down to the office at the end of the day, she was not there. She had to leave work to come and get me!

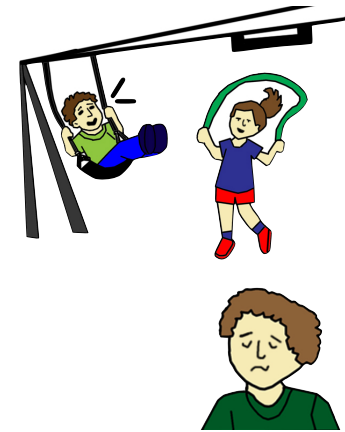

My mom talks to me when she is far away from me. She was mad when I didn't do what she asked me to do. I really didn't hear what she said. It makes me mad that my family doesn't remember that I have a hearing loss.

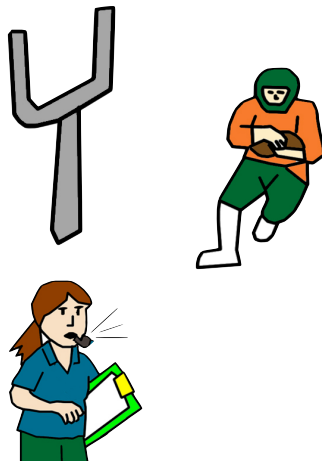

I was walking with my friend outside. He asked me a question. I didn't hear him. My friend got mad and I didn't know why.

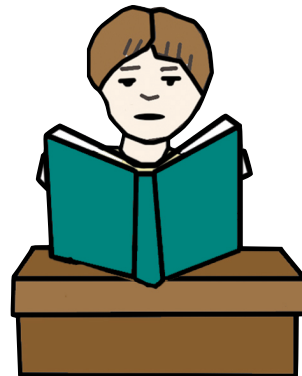

After recess my friends were mad at me. I didn't know why. I found out later they were calling me to come play with them and they thought I was ignoring them.

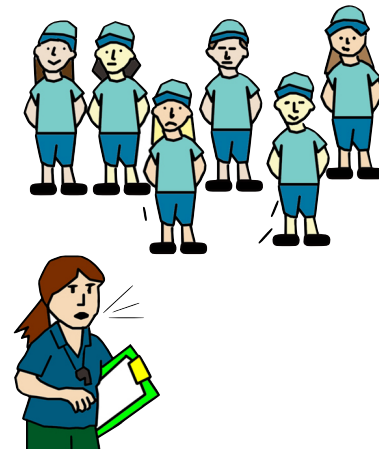

We were playing football. Everyone stopped playing. I didn't know why. I can't hear the whistle.

During class we take turns reading out loud. The teacher called a name. I thought she said my name, so I started reading out loud. I was so embarrassed because she didn't really say my name.

During the gym the teacher called out group numbers. I thought my number was called. I was so embarrassed when I got up- and my number wasn't called.

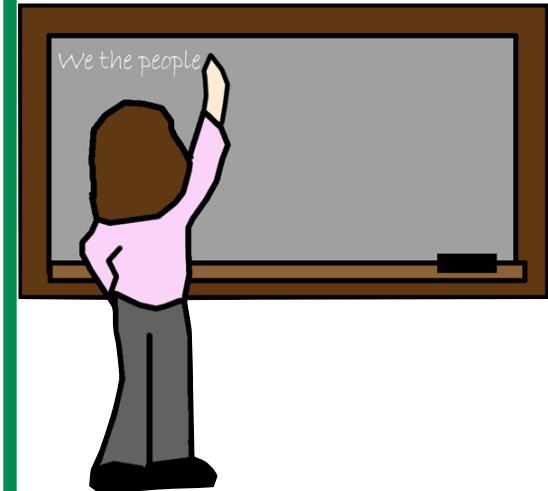

In the lunch line I was not paying attention. The kid behind me was whispering, "go". I didn't hear him. By the time I finally heard him, I had really jammed up the line!

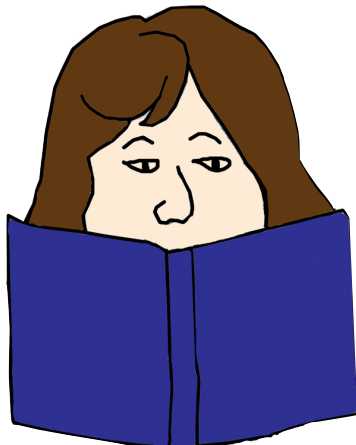

I thought we were supposed to read pages 24-32. Boy was I surprised when I found out the next day in class that I was supposed to have read pages 24-42

The teacher was telling us what page to turn to while facing the board. I couldn't hear what she was saying.

A classmate is presenting his project. He holds the book in front of his face, mumbles and talks really fast. We are going to be tested on information classmates present.

We have a guest speaker presenting to our class. I can't hear or understand him.

My substitute teacher said, "You have a big test next week". The next day when I got to school, the teacher said, "Get ready for the test!" I was really upset because I didn't hear when the sub said she made a mistake and the test wasn't next week, it was the next day!
